

Dear Sirs,

Please do not interfere with Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. It has made our time at home much more enjoyable without the annoyance of UNWANTED & UNSOLICITED phone interruptions.

Prior to the implementation of this law we received at least one phone call per day for credit cards, charities, etc. After registering on the no-call list when it was first made available we have seen these calls reduced to zero!! What a blessing, PLEASE DO NOT CHANGE THIS!!

I pay for my phone line (not the advertisers) and they should not have any say in how this service is used. Would you allow them to control the thermostat in my home? the lights used in my fixtures? If not, then why would you allow them to have any control over the way I choose to use this service?

If advertisers feel they are losing out on profits due to this. Let them pay an amount somewhat less than the estimated losses incurred to the phone company. The phone company can then lower the phone rates of users who will accept the subsidy with the stipulation that they will then accept phone solicitations. I WILL NOT BE ONE OF THEM!!!

The law is working - leave it alone.

Yours,
Jason Denman
